Was there a specific course (or courses) that you considered more valuable than others?

- * none of the courses I took were relevant to the "current" industry concepts or skills needed to perform the job I wanted. However, I did learn a lot about where the instructors took their vacations and what they do during the breaks. And if I wanted to become a travel agent, I would have gotten a great education.
- * All of the courses for the program were of value, however, there were several classes that were questionable regarding the careers some students would want to go for. For example, taking culinary classes for non-culinary students was a bit of challenge. While I understand the academic portion to taking a culinary class, my career did not involve restaurants. Most of my student colleagues wanted to work specifically at hotels, we did not see the benefit of taking a cooking class.
- * I enjoyed the catering classes as well as the customer service class. I also found the business etiquette courses to be helpful and served as good reminders for entering into the job market. / I quite enjoyed my current events course as well, because I feel it is important to talk about what's happening in the world, and specifically in my industry.
- * I feel I didn't need the computer classes, since I already knew how to use computer programs. I do feel there weren't enough recreation-specific courses.
- * I think that accounting and classes of that sort were more valuable because it is stuff that we actually use in the real world.

Are there any new tools, applications, or standards the program should be teaching?

- * There could be more focus on the event planning section, maybe more than 1 course dedicated to it. I feel that I took courses that were built around the hotel and travel industry, and only 1 class regarding event planning. Also most of the training videos were dated (extremely)
- * Not at the moment.
- * A more updated computer applications class would be helpful. A Microsoft program from 1998 isn't current or helpful.
- * Can not think of anything.
- * More professional networking skills. More help on finding jobs.
